

Abstract

The invention relates to a novel polyamide molding material for highly lustrous and rigid polyamide molded articles that contains a polyamide mixture consisting of a semicrystalline linear polyamide, a special branched graft polyamide, an amorphous polyamide, reinforcing substances as well as conventional additives.

10